

The Rideau Roundtable
in collaboration with the City of Ottawa invite one and all to a timely and important panel discussion:

~ Open Channels ~ A Dialogue on Flooding ~
with some of Canada's leading experts on flood management.

Paul Lehman
General Manager, Mississippi Valley Conservation Authority
Patrick Larson
Senior Water Resources Technician,
Rideau Valley Conservation Authority
Dave Ness
Water Management Engineer, Parks Canada
Jim Montgomery
Office of Emergency Management, City of Ottawa
And Other City Staff

The human, environmental and economic costs of flooding are staggering.
In the Ottawa area, there are significant risks of flooding in low lying areas along many of our waterways.
Come and learn about who does what with respect to flood management in the Ottawa area and how people and property are being protected.
Join us in the discussion about what may lie ahead for our future, in terms of flooding, both globally and locally.

Monday March 30, 2015 from 7-8:30 pm
Chamber Room
Ben Franklin Place,
101 Centrepont Drive, Ottawa.

There is no charge for attendance or parking.

This presentation is part of the Rideau Roundtable's series of events under the banner:
Sustainable Communities – Healthy Futures
